

RECOVERY FOUNDATIONS

for 2025

WITH LAURA SHAW

5-DAY RECOVERY FOUNDATIONS GUIDE

WELCOME FRIEND,

I'm so glad you're here and ready to make 2025 a year focused on recovery and stepping into your true identity!

This 5-Day challenge will help you lay a strong foundation for your recovery journey. Each day features a meaningful activity or prompt to encourage reflection, build resilience, and inspire hope. By the end of these five days, you'll have tools and insights to guide you through the year ahead.

Please share your thoughts, reflections, and support with the small group of women and let's step into recovery together because recovery happens in the community!

I look forward to supporting you and cheering you on in the group!

With Hope,

Laura Shaw

Contents

01 - DAY ONE

DISCOVER YOUR WHY

02 - DAY TWO

LETTER FOR A HARD DAY

03 - DAY THREE

HEAVY + LIGHT JAR

04 - DAY FOUR

RECOVERY BUCKET LIST

05 - DAY FIVE

LETTER TO YOUR FUTURE SELF

06 - NOW WHAT?

NEXT STEPS

A photograph of a wooden boardwalk path winding through a dense forest of tall evergreen trees. The path is made of dark wooden planks and leads into the distance. The trees are tall and thin, with green needles. The ground is covered in green foliage and ferns. The overall scene is peaceful and natural.

RECOVERY IS POSSIBLE

DAY ONE

DISCOVER YOUR WHY

Your “WHY” is the anchor of your recovery. It’s the driving force that will keep you grounded when challenges arise. It will also grow and adapt with you as you move through different stages of your recovery.

Take your time with this activity —journal your thoughts on the next page (or in your own journal). Think about the life you want beyond your eating disorder: relationships, passions, self-compassion, freedom, hobbies, etc. Reflect on why this moment is the right time to commit to recovery. Visualizing what recovery will feel like, peace, empowerment, connection —can help you stay motivated!

DAY TWO

LETTER FOR A HARD DAY

You've probably heard this before, but recovery isn't linear. There will be moments when it feels overwhelming or unattainable. A letter written by your current self, full of encouragement, hope, and belief in YOUR journey, can be a powerful tool to lean on. Include any affirmations or reminders of your strength. Include reminders from your WHY for recovery as well!

Create a list of coping skills and self-care activities you can do to support yourself through the hard days. If you're looking for any suggestions, reach out in the group and we can create a list together!

DATE

COPING SKILLS

SELF-CARE

DAY THREE

HEAVY + LIGHT

Life is a mix of heavy and light moments, and recovery is about learning to hold space for both. This jar/box will help you cultivate gratitude, acknowledge your resilience, and build hope for the future. As you look back on your reflections at the end of the year, you'll see evidence of the challenges you overcame, the joy you experienced, and the hopes that carried you forward. This exercise reinforces the idea that difficult times don't negate moments of joy, and vice versa.

Use the templates on the next few pages or create your own! Each week, you will take time to reflect on something that was Heavy, something that was Light and something you're looking forward to. Then, place it in the jar and at the end of the year you will read through each one.

✦ Weekly ✦

Heavy + Light + Hope

DATE: _____

HEAVY

LIGHT

HOPE

DATE: _____

HEAVY

LIGHT

HOPE

✦ Weekly ✦

Heavy + Light + Hope

DATE: _____

HEAVY

LIGHT

HOPE

DATE: _____

HEAVY

LIGHT

HOPE

DAY FOUR

RECOVERY BUCKET LIST

Create a bucket list of experiences or goals you want to experience in recovery. Are there activities you want to try, places you'd like to visit or hobbies you'd like to learn?

Recovery isn't just about letting go of an eating disorder; it's also about rediscovering yourself and exploring new possibilities! This bucket list can include big dreams or simple joys —both are equally meaningful! Write down on the following page (or in a journal) as many ideas as you'd like, and revisit your list throughout the year. Trying new things and stepping outside your comfort zone can help you reconnect with who you are beyond the eating disorder.

DAY FIVE

LETTER TO YOUR FUTURE SELF

Write a letter to your future self to open a year from now, or choose a random date. This letter is a time capsule of your current self. It's an opportunity to reflect on how far you've come and set intentions for where you want to go. Speak to your future self with kindness and encouragement. Highlight your courage and resilience, especially in the face of hard and challenging days. Celebrate the strength it takes to keep going and believing in your story. This world needs you and your light. Once you're done, seal it, date it for when to open it, and store it somewhere safe to revisit!

DATE

DEAR _____,

A series of horizontal lines for writing the letter's content.

NEXT STEPS

CONGRATULATIONS ON FINISHING THIS RECOVERY FOUNDATIONS GUIDE!

Each of these activities is a step toward building a solid foundation for your recovery. Take it one day at a time, and remember that every small action adds up to meaningful progress. Recovery is possible, and you can create the life you've been waiting for! Here's to a year of healing, hope, and growth —you've got this!

If you're looking to carry this momentum forward with guided support or would like to learn more about how a recovery coach could help, book a FREE Application Call, and we can discuss what kind of support you're looking for.

LAURASHAWCOACHING@GMAIL.COM

WWW.LAURASHAWCOACHING.COM

@LAURASHAWCOACHING